

PUBLIC URGED BY PRESIDENT TO CUT WASTE

with "quickly and decisively". Thus, he said, much depends upon compliance with the voluntary conservation measures the committee will propose.

The chief executive made it emphatically clear that food conservation must be achieved through equitable sharing by all Americans and "not by increasing prices so that the brunt of the sacrifice will be borne by those least able to buy food."

MR. TRUMAN declared that the American people waste an estimated ten per cent of all the food they buy. He added:

"Clearly, by wasting less, American families can help significantly in feeding hungry families abroad. In addition to cutting down waste, Americans can save by being more selective in the foods they buy."

The President said that "we must deal with the problem quickly and decisively" and that "much depends" upon the voluntary rationing program being formulated by the food committee.

The committee's voluntary program will be made public later today.

MR. TRUMAN said that the United States can plan to export only about 470 million bushels of grain under present conditions.

He declared that there is strong evidence that the United States will have to export at least 100 million bushels more grain than now appears available.

The chief executive added: "This 100 million bushels must be saved by the American people. This is our minimum goal. We know that only part of that saving can come from serving fewer slices of bread."

"The greater part of the saving must come out of what we feed our livestock. We must also save out of what we waste, and out of what we use in a score of ways for human food."

MR. TRUMAN said that conservation practices to be worked out by his citizens' food committee should "bring down some food prices, and hence reduce the cost of living" by cutting down the demand for certain foods.

The President said that the savings on food asked of each individual American "is actually very small." He added:

"One bushel of grain saved by every American in the next few months will do the job."

The chief executive said that the food committee, by representing all segments of the nation's population "can help us plan where, how much, and what kinds of food we should save."

Luckman told the President that the food committee "cannot fail in this mission which you have given us without failing in our duty to America." He continued:

"And, Mr. President, the people of America have never failed in the accomplishment of any war. They will not fail in this war on hunger. On their behalf we pledge you our earnest endeavors."

LABOR UNREST SPREADS AGAIN

members have not signed affidavits.

Officials of the union immediately involved — the Electrical Workers Brotherhood — have signed the Communist disclaimer, however.

SEVERAL OTHER tests of the law are underway in the New York area, where motion picture operators in 120 theaters, employees of the Childs restaurant chain and employees of Safeway stores have voted to strike unless demands are met.

The Nassau Daily Review-Star at Rockville Center, L. I., filed an NLRB complaint charging the AFL International Typographical Union with disobeying the law by refusing to bargain collectively.

The union's national policy is to avoid signing contracts while the Taft-Hartley bill is in force, but, instead, to post notices of working conditions which it will accept. Baltimore employers recently took NLRB action and the Baltimore ITU local agreed to negotiate a contract.

The 13-day Railway Express Agency strike, which has boosted New York's parcel post volume tremendously, was marked by a $10 million damage suit.

New York millinery manufacturers said they will sue for that amount. They also seek an NLRB injunction against picketing.

Leaders of the women's garment industry asked Mayor William O'Dwyer to take a hand in trying to get the goods moving again.

A STRIKE of 13,000 CIO-United Shoe Workers' union members in Missouri, Illinois and New Hampshire plants of the International Shoe company was averted by the signing of a new contract between the union and the company at St. Louis. The agreement, providing for wage increases, came after the company had obtained a circuit court temporary restraining order at Union, Mo., enjoining the union from striking in Missouri plants of the firm.

Ford Motor company employees accepted a new contract granting an 11 1/2 cent hourly increase, making their wages highest in the industry.

In New York, President Joseph Curran told the CIO-National Maritime Union convention that most of its elected officers and administrative personnel are Communist-dominated and so is its newspaper, the Pilot.

AN OFFICIAL of the Air Line Pilots Association, AFL, claimed today that the walkout of American overseas airlines' flyers "is now 100 per cent complete."

David L. Behnke, ALPA president, declared that the strike which began at 4 a. m. (EST) yesterday had stopped all of the airlines' over-ocean air flights to Europe.

Approximately 2,400 international shoe company workers in new Hampshire went on strike following failure to negotiate a new contract.

The workers, members of the CIO-United Shoe Workers of America, seek an increase of 18 1/2 cents an hour. The company offered a five cents an hour boost if the federal labor department price index reaches 10 points above last March's figure.

The powerful carpenters' union was scheduled to throw its support today to a resolution by metal workers' delegates calling on all American Federation of Labor officials to sign non-Communist affidavits.

It calls upon the AFL top leaders "to yield to the present filing requirements" of the Taft-Hartley law "but without prejudice" to their rights to oppose the act's provisions in the courts, congress and general elections.

'COLD WAVE' IN COUNTY OFFICES STILL UNBROKEN

Some courthouse offices were "cold" Wednesday for the third successive day.

A log fire burned in the fireplace in the office of County Auditor Fred L. Tipton. Some mortar work was done Wednesday morning as a safety precaution and the wood fire then was re-kindled in the fireplace at the office of County Treasurer Robert G. Colville.

A small electric heater was placed in use in the probate court office in an attempt to beat the "chill" in the coldest spot in the building.

There was no heat in the office of Clerk of Courts Arthur L. Wilder.

The offices in the "old" part of the courthouse had no steam heat available because new boilers ordered five months ago had not been installed. Offices in the "new" section of the building, however, were being heated by steam from boilers in the courthouse basement.

Those suffering from lack of heat included prisoners in the Pickaway county jail.

WAR VICTIMS ON WAY HOME

should be sent homeward from the spot where Japan's infamous attack plunged the United States into the global conflict nearly six long years ago.

Many of the lifeless aboard the Honda Knot were those who had perished at Pearl Harbor and Honolulu in the first fierce hours of the Japanese sneak assault. Others included those who had subsequently yielded their lives in battles on many far-flung Pacific fronts.

THEY WERE DUE to reach the homeland on Oct. 10 when, at noon, the Honda Knot is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco.

An impressive hour long ceremony at the Pearl Harbor dockside provided a sendoff for the transport and her honored cargo.

Adm. Louis E. Denfield, commander of the Pacific fleet, led highplaced Navy and Army officers who delivered brief eulogies before a dockside altar representing the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths.

RAILROADER ACCUSED OF ATTACK ON POLICEMAN

Russell Stewart, 37, railroader, Circleville, was arrested at 1:30 a. m. Wednesday by Patrolman William Sark on charges of intoxication, disorderly conduct, and resisting an officer. Mr. Stewart was lodged in the city jail to await a hearing in the court of Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

Patrolman Sark said he entered a West Main street tavern in connection with a police investigation and that Mr. Stewart, occupant of a tavern booth, "interfered" with him. The police report said that Mr. Stewart jumped from the booth and allegedly assaulted Patrolman Sark.

NAZI PLAN FOR TOWING GLIDERS COPIED BY AMC

WRIGHT FIELD, Dayton, O., Oct. 1—Improvement upon a borrowed Nazi idea is expected to make possible towing of gliders in weather which requires instrument flying.

Air materiel command officials at Wright Field revealed today that they are experimenting with use of a rigid metal tow bar instead of the conventional rope.

A possible development of the experiments may be towing of P-80 jet fighters to combat areas to conserve their own fuel supply.

Major F. J. Sweet, the AMC's glider unit chief, said the basic design for the rigid glider tow was discovered in captured Nazi documents. The Germans, however, used planes too light for the gliders they attempted to tow and were unsuccessful.

STRIKE-BOUND PLANT SUES FOR PEACEFUL PICKETING

BUCYRUS, O., Oct. 1—A hearing will be held in Crawford county common pleas court Friday morning on an injunction suit filed by officials of the strike-bound North Electric company of Galion against the CIO-United Automobile Workers union.

The company filed suit late yesterday asking for peaceful picketing at the plant and seeking to limit the number of pickets.

Two hundred windows at the plant were broken last Friday after 25 officials and engineers attempted a "test" back-to-work movement.

PISTOL KILLS CHILD

IRONTON, O., Oct. 1—The accidental discharge of a pistol by a playmate was responsible today for the death of Richard Slaughter, 11, son of Mrs. Alberta Slaughter of Ironton. Lynd Brammer, 12, told police the weapon was discharged while he and Richard were playing with it yesterday.

CHECK ON RED VISITORS URGED

to enter Russia to inspect the American embassy came as a distinct shock to state department officials and members of congress.

THE STATE department declined to comment and refused to disclose whether or not an official protest to Moscow is under consideration.

Bridges declared that the incident "once again shows Russia in her true light." He said that the Russians "want no disclosure of true facts to emanate from behind their iron curtain."

Sen. Brooks (R) Ill., a member of the senate group also struck at the Soviet decision. Brooks said:

"This action should be proof positive of the fallacy of the stupid policy of using American taxpayers' money to support bad governments under the guise of being the arsenal of democracy."

"The Soviets were never our allies. They were co-belligerents, using our sacrifices, blood and treasure to expand the tyranny and oppression throughout the world."

"This should be a warning to the members of congress and the American people not to support any government that does not guarantee individual human freedoms."

RUSSIA COULD OCCUPY EUROPE IN 48 HOURS

Military Affairs Expert Says Red Army Kept Ready After War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—A leading military affairs expert declared today in a copyrighted article in the Armored Cavalry Journal that the Russian army could occupy the whole of western Europe in 48 hours.

Mal. Hal D. Steward, associate editor of the journal, said the Red army's 48-hour operation could be completed against the best resistance which could be offered by all American, British and French troops now in Europe.

THE EXPERT reasoned: "This is possible because of the high state of training and conditioning that has been maintained in the Russian army since the end of World War II."

Steward quoted informed sources as estimating that Russia now has 10 mechanized armies in Europe, with the Soviets striving for complete motorization.

THE AUTHOR listed a number of reasons for the present formidability of the Red army. Among them were:

1. Leadership in all ranks is excellent.
2. Maneuvers in the Russian army take place in all four seasons regardless of prevailing weather conditions.
3. All army units are required to participate in the maneuvers.
4. Critiques are held by top-ranking Red officers at the conclusion of each exercise. At these critiques enlisted men who have distinguished themselves are selected for schooling in preparation for promotion.
5. In occupied countries, training is carried on six days a week, with the result that the Red army is not becoming stagnant or stale from occupational duty.

Steward estimated present strength of the Russian army at between three and a half million and four million men.

EUROPEAN AID MAY NOT COME UNTIL JANUARY

Even Special Session Of Congress Would Not Guarantee Funds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—A possibility loomed today that even with a special session of congress President Truman's stop-gap European feeding program will not be enacted before the regular session in January.

Sen. Buck (R) Del., said he did not believe that even the emergency measure could be enacted in the short time that will remain in the year after the congressional foreign and appropriations committees finish their work.

Two high Democratic spokesmen agreed privately with Buck that Mr. Truman's stop-gap request of 580 million dollars will not be handled speedily on the floor.

SUPPORTING their view was the disclosure of Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., that when his foreign relations committee begins its hearings on Nov. 10 he expects to go over the long-range Marshall plan as well as the emergency relief legislation. Vandenberg's plans are in line with his earlier criticism of the administration, in which he protested against "piecemeal" proposals.

The senator said that the long-range program must be studied in order to fit the relief bill into the whole picture.

Speculation continued over how soon, if at all, a special session will be called.

IT WAS generally believed that, with the senate appropriations committee not meeting until mid-November, a special session could not come before Dec. 1.

One Democratic spokesman, however, said privately that he foresaw a possibility that the GOP leadership might see an opportunity to take the initiative away from President Truman and call an earlier session—perhaps by mid-November.

On the other hand, Sen. Taft (R) Ohio declared that a special session before Dec. 1 appeared unnecessary.

NEIGHBOR BOUND OVER IN MURDER AT GROVE CITY

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 1—The 66-year-old alleged slayer of a Beulah Park groom was under first-degree murder charges today.

Mrs. Medrith Layton, 24, Grove City, filed formal charges against her neighbor, Clarence M. Pullen, in connection with the shooting of her husband, Shem, 64. The widow, who had been held in Franklin county jail as a material witness after the shooting Saturday night, was released.

Sheriff's deputies said Pullen had admitted firing a shotgun blast into Layton's abdomen. He

MEN NAMED IN TATOOS ON DEAD WOMAN HUNTED

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Oct. 1—Men whose names appeared upon the tattooed body of Mrs. Margaret Treese, 34-year-old war widow, were sought for questioning today in connection with her mutilation slaying.

Police also investigated the possibility that her murder was connected with that of James Winfield, 47.

Mrs. Treese's nude body was found yesterday near the approach to Credit Island park in West Davenport. Her chest had been punctured 19 times, her head had been dealt a crushing blow, and the body had been run over several times by an automobile.

The name "Stanley Dombkiewicz" was tattooed on her chest, with the words "true love" beneath it. On her right arm were the names "Peggy and Stan" and the left arm bore the inscription "Frank and James Stanley."

Her left leg bore a large cross with the words, "rock of ages" inside it. Beneath the cross were the names "Bill and Ezzie."

Winfield's body was discovered Sept. 7 in the undergrowth on the banks of the Mississippi river. His head was crushed.

Clarence Saunders, 42, who identified the woman's body, told authorities that the two vic-

TAFT READY TO FIGHT AGAINST PRICE CONTROL

Ohio Senator Feels Solons Will Face Requests For Return Of Curbs

ENROUTE TO CHEYENNE WITH SEN. TAFT, Oct. 1—Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R) O., was ready today to face and fight a "left-wing demand" for restoration of price control when congress reconvenes.

But the senate leader and undeclared presidential candidate asserted that neither President Truman nor other "democrats" are willing to endorse suggestions that price controls be renewed to halt the living cost spiral.

Taft headed for Cheyenne from Boise, Idaho, where he defended the GOP program in a speech which denounced Washington bureaucrats and "totalitarian government."

THE OHIOAN will deliver the final address of his six-state speaking tour in Jasper, Wyo., tomorrow night. It is scheduled to be a sharp criticism of the Truman administration's "failures" in office.

Taft served notice in Boise that he is opposed to any special session of congress before Dec. 1 for the purpose of providing emergency funds for distressed Europe. He said he thought "some ingenious person" could find the $60 million dollars asked by President Truman in funds held by government corporations.

Taft also spiked reports that he and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota might be "teaming up" to block Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's drive for the 1948 presidential nomination. He said there is "no foundation" for such reports.

ON THE PRICE control issue, Taft told his Boise audience:

"We have today demands from various left-wing sources for a restoration of price control. I haven't found the Democrats willing to endorse it. President Truman hasn't been willing to endorse it. But we may have that demand when we return to congress.

"I do not think the solution of the price problem is the restoration of price control."

Taft said that Washington bureaucrats "will not change their views" because of some "kick from the sticks." He cuttingly referred to Washington bureaucrats where, he said, "every office is filled up with people sitting around in the afternoon with nothing to do."

The Taft party found Idaho a Dewey-inclined state. GOP leaders indicated Dewey sentiment dating from the 1944 election was still strong but paid high tribute to Taft for the "fine job" he is doing for the party in his current western speaking trip.

Why isn't more gasoline and fuel oil available in this area?

FAIR QUESTIONS and STRAIGHT ANSWERS

Q. Is there less fuel oil and gasoline available now than there was last year?

A. There is more available. Today American oil companies are producing and delivering more fuel oil and gasoline than last year, even more than they did in the biggest war year—1945. For instance, Sohio refineries are this year operating at a rate 27% over 1945. But the demand has increased by leaps and bounds. Some customers, unfortunately through no fault of theirs or ours, are getting less than they would like.

Q. Where is this great increase in demand coming from?

A. In this area the greatest demand increase has come in burning oils; for instance, in fuel oil for home heating. In addition, more gasoline and oil products are being used by more motor vehicles; by more conversions of industries to oil; by more gasoline-powered machinery for farms; by more transportation demands, such as Diesel locomotives and giant airlines; and by public demand for hundreds of new products—plastics, paints, insect sprays, chemicals, etc.—that are made with oil products.

Never before has oil been called upon to do so much.

Q. Why are all these people turning to oil?

A. Because oil has demonstrated over and over again that it does so much so much better . . . so inexpensively.

Q. What is the problem in getting supplies of petroleum products to some localities?

A. Transportation is the real difficulty. The major crude oil producing areas in the southwest are more than a thousand miles from Ohio refineries. Additional pipe lines are needed. They will go into use just as soon as the required steel and equipment can be secured.

Q. What is being done to improve the situation?

A. Everything possible. The petroleum industry has ordered more than four billion dollars worth of new equipment for production, refining, and transportation. Some of it has already been received. How soon the rest can be put to work depends on how fast other industries are able to provide the materials the oil industry has ordered to serve your needs.

Q. What relation is there between fuel oil and gasoline?

A. Fuel oil, especially for home heating, experiences a heavily concentrated demand in a short season. Keeping a warm home is a critical matter. Increasing the production of fuel oil for home heating prevents the making of more gasoline.

Q. What advice has Sohio on installing new oil heating equipment?

A. Our best advice is not to install oil heat this season, whether it is a small room or so-called "space heater", or a larger central heating plant, unless you have some fuel oil supplier's assurance to give you a full winter's supply. As a necessary safeguard for present Sohio-Heat customers, Sohio is not taking, and cannot take on, any additional fuel oil commitments (announced as long ago as June 25).

Q. Why isn't the shortage the same among oil companies and areas?

A. Simply this: the demand on oil companies and in different areas varies. You can rely on the long standing competition between oil companies of all sizes, in all areas, for the assurance that progress is being made for the public's security and benefit.

Q. Will oil companies be able to meet future demands—to produce and deliver oil products at an even faster pace?

A. Yes. By drilling more wells than ever before and new efficiency in getting more of the oil out of each well. New ways have been found to get more and better gasoline and fuel oil from each gallon of crude oil—the result of rivalry among the refineries. Oil companies constantly compete in oil production, transportation and refining, as well as in marketing. It is this rivalry that has given America greater oil supplies, better oil products, at the lowest prices in the world.

OUR DEEPEST REGRET

Our deepest regret is the unavoidable inconvenience caused some good Sohio customers and friends.

If your Sohio dealer, distributor, or company service station is not open, or cannot deliver all of the petroleum products that you desire when you want them, please remember that he, and Sohio, are doing the best that they can under trying conditions.

For many reasons the supply of Sohio petroleum products is not necessarily uniform among stations or areas.

We hope you will continue to come to Sohio for your long mileage gasolines, careful services, and other products.

HOSE FOR HOES

CHEMICAL sprays can increase grain, vegetable and fruit harvests, in addition to controlling weeds, destroying blight and insects. They can give America a real chance to aid a starving world. So writes Robert Price Russell in a recent issue of the Atlantic Monthly.

The United States' contribution to foreign nations amounting to nearly 20 billion dollars, is only an emergency stopgap, he believes. But should this country export its technological agricultural knowledge, the world's food supply could be made adequate, living standards raised and war-wrecked, economically backward nations could be given a chance at self-help.

Mr. Russell is president of a research organization which has developed chemicals which he thinks will accomplish all this. Sprays will eliminate weeds, thus cutting down labor. They will prevent premature dropping of fruit and increase the meat-animal supply by eliminating ticks and insects. He points as proof to the quadrupled potato yield in New York State on lessened acreage through the use of blight-resistant seed; to the fact that one farmer in California with these modern aids can raise as much rice as 1,000 workers in old-style Japanese fields.

He is calling for this country to help herself by helping needy nations to arrive at a scientific food-raising basis. He wants America to export its technology and technicians. His motto is: One man with a hose can produce more food than many men with hoes.

MORE TEACHERS

RECENT well-publicized efforts to interest more young people in teaching careers seem to have met with some success, according to officials of Illinois State Normal University.

This co-educational school admits only students who are preparing to make a career of teaching. Increased interest is being shown in elementary work with many of the 2,050 students enrolled indicating a leaning in that direction. One factor influencing this decision may be improved starting salaries in many areas for elementary teachers. One branch of teaching which is attracting many students is "special" education, which covers the instruction of handicapped children.

The move to gain more recruits for jobs in education should not be halted until every child in the United States is sure of being taught in every grade by a properly qualified teacher.

Parents usually plan to have their children become doctors or lawyers or business men. But did anyone ever deliberately plan to have his son become a baseball umpire?

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By Kenneth L. Dixon
Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—Prohibition has suddenly pitched its hat back in the nation's front door, and right now is waiting outside to see if it's safe to come home.

The "hat" was that blast at Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey the other day by the Methodist board of temperance.

Halsey had been quoted as saying that as a general rule (with exceptions, of course) he didn't trust a fighting man who neither drank nor smoked.

Among its gentler broadsides, the temperance board said that Halsey's statement was "exceedingly injurious to the Navy."

It might have added that the admiral's comment certainly was not injurious to the powerful "bring-back-prohibition" movement which recently has been swinging into action with surprising strength across the country. Unwittingly, Halsey gave the prohibition forces the very break they'd been waiting for — and the coast-to-coast headlines about their blast at him may well mark the beginning of an open fight for the "repeal of repeal."

Now it is not the purpose of this particular piece of prose to either praise or damn prohibition. But it is its purpose to point out that the issue is rising again, and Americans may soon be called upon to re-fight the ancient liquor fued.

With that in mind, let's take a look at the line-up.

Few newsmen in Washington who have been reading their mail regularly were at all surprised at the temperance board's blast. The reason was that they had been getting regular weekly handouts in the form of the board's "Clipsheet" which obviously was the build-up for the impending battle.

Among others generally allied with the Methodist board in the fight are such as (1) the Anti-Saloon League which spearheaded the scrap successfully the last time, (2) the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, (3) the National Temperance Movement, (4) the Methodist Temperance Advance Movement, (5) the Prohibition party, and allied groups—nearly 100 in all!

As yet, most of those groups have not announced openly in favor of national prohibition, contenting themselves with first winning as many local-option elections across the country as possible. This is generally admitted, however, by most of the leaders to be simply an infiltration operation. One prominent dry leader recently was quoted as saying:

"Each time we swing a local district we have established another bridgehead in wet territory. . . Once we've won a majority of the districts of a state, we can begin to think about state-wide prohibition. And once a majority of the states are dry, we'll be ready to press for a national amendment. . ."

If you think this "infiltration campaign" has been ineffectual, you'd better think again. When South Carolina Representative Joe Bryson introduced a resolution calling for another prohibition amendment during the last congressional session, he cited a few figures:

"Of some 20,469 local option elections held since repeal, the dries have won 12,519. Local option net gains in 1946 were more than twice as great as in 1945."

Few People Know About Their Sixth Sense Until It's Lost

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST people would be very much surprised to learn that they possess a sixth sense, one of which they are never aware of until they lose it. This is the sense of balance and movement through space.

Only the man who has experienced its loss knows its importance. Without it, he seems to be living in a world of rotating objects, all of which move around him in dizzy circles in more or less degree. Either this, or he, himself, seems to be moving like a perpetual whirling in a stationary world. Either variety of this sensation is called vertigo, or dizziness.

Three Structures

Our sense of balance is maintained largely by three delicate little structures in the inner ear known as the semicircular canal, and upset by anything which interferes with them.

In a disturbance of the ear called Meniere's disease, there is vertigo, together with sickness to the stomach or vomiting, ringing in the ears and some disturbance of the hearing in the attack. Sometimes there may also be nystagmus, a repeated movement of the eyes to one side, with a slow return to the normal position.

The exact cause of Meniere's disease is not known. However, it is thought that it may be due to an allergy, or oversensitivity to some food which is eaten, which affects the semicircular canals. Infections in the teeth, tonsils, sinuses or elsewhere in the body may also have some bearing on the cause.

More Successful Methods

Recently, more successful methods of treating Meniere's disease have been discovered.

For example, one method of treatment is to use a diet which is as free from salt as possible. In addition, the substance known as ammonium chloride is given. Limiting of the fluids taken into the body also has been tried, and seems to bring a great improvement in a large number of cases. These three procedures decrease the fluid content of the body.

Another method of treatment consists of the giving of injections under the skin of histamine di-phosphate, with the idea of lessening the allergic reaction.

Combination Treatment

Sometimes the treatment recommended combines a number of these elements.

During an attack, the patient is placed in bed in a semi-darkened room. Some form of sedative or quieting drug is administered, and the fluid intake is limited.

Following the attack, a skin test is done by injecting a small amount of histamine under the skin. If this test is positive, it is shown by the development of a red swelling at the point of injection. Treatment is then taken to desensitize or lessen the sensitivity to the histamine by giving injections of gradually increasing doses of histamine. If the reaction to the histamine is negative, the giving of nicotinic acid, which is a part of the Vitamin B complex may be helpful.

These Enough Sometimes

In some instances, the reduction of fluids and the limiting of salt in the diet are enough without other forms of treatment.

If none of these measures is satisfactory, the giving of a drug known as benzyl cinnamate may serve to bring relief.

If medical measures alone cannot control the condition, some form of surgery may be necessary, and in a number of such cases, surgical treatment has been found to bring excellent results in some cases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
E. J. B.: What is the cause of rough skin on the upper arms and legs? What will remedy the condition?

Answer: The roughness of the skin may be due to many causes, such as vitamin "A" deficiency, skin infection, or skin disturbance produced by allergy or oversensitivity. Careful study by a skin specialist would be needed before treatment could be advised.

PEGGY DERN

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

LISSA'S BLUE eyes flashed with outrage, but Greg had already started up the stairs with an air of decision that made her ask sharply, "Where are you going?"

Greg glanced at her over his shoulder.

"To find Gail, of course," he answered as though puzzled that she could ask such an idiotic question.

"Oh," she flashed, "then you DO know something."

"I know that you and I, who are supposed to love her best, have let her down badly," he said ruefully. "I know that she went to Atlanta, and if she didn't have much money, and too much pride to ask any of her rich friends for help, then she looked for work—and being Gail, she probably found it. So she's somewhere in Atlanta—or at least, I'll start with that premise."

"Good!" said Martin unexpectedly. "Paul will drive you. Much better than waiting for a train."

"Thanks," said Greg, and looked at Martin with almost unwilling approval.

He was half-way up the stairs now, and Norah said suddenly, "I'm coming with you, Greg."

"We'll all go," said Lissa.

"No," said Greg flatly. "That will only make confusion. Norah and I will find her."

"Perhaps a really good detective," suggested Martin.

And Charles put in, his eyes upon Greg, "A man in love hunting for the girl he loves is better than a dozen of the finest detectives. Greg and Norah will find her."

Greg hesitated. His face was brick red, his eyes suddenly shamed.

"I ought to be shot, Uncle Charles, for driving her away," he said harshly. "I pretended to love her, but I misjudged her from the first. I should have had more faith in her."

"Yes, Greg, you should," Charles agreed, and Greg's color deepened at the reproach in the older man's quiet voice.

He hesitated a moment, then went on upstairs. Norah ran after him, and the four left at the foot of the stairs looked at each other uncertainly.

Kate, in her worn bathrobe, which could not under even the most kindly of circumstances have been called a negligee, her glorious hair in two thick braids over her shoulders giving her an oddly young girl look; Lissa, white faced beneath her delicate, expert make-up, exquisitely dressed; Charles, his hair tousled from sleep, his face sagging with weariness and anxiety, and Martin, looking and feeling an unhappy outsider, sharply conscious of his well-groomed appearance.

Lissa, as though answering unspoken criticism, said hysterically, "Of course I'm going to help hunt my baby."

"Greg is quite right, my dear." Martin's voice held an unexpected authority, a voice quite apart from his usual tone of indulgent tenderness. "You are over-wrought and in no condition to endure the suspense. I am quite sure we can leave the matter safely to Greg. If, in a day or two, he has no news to her whereabouts, then we can hire detectives."

"It's all your fault," Lissa turned sharply on Charles. "Making her live in this awful place, working like a field hand, after all she's been accustomed to."

"Gail told us frankly that it was the first security she had ever known," Charles said quietly. "The first time she had ever felt wanted—welcomed. Lissa, she was happy—you must believe that."

"Until she and Greg quarreled," Kate put in, her voice shaken a little with resentment at the unpleasantness of Lissa's manner. "And that, Lissa, I think you must admit was solely your fault. That letter of yours—"

Lissa flung up her head and her eyes were frosty.

"If anything I did broke up this fantastic marriage with that—outcast young man, then I'm glad I did it," she flashed loudly.

Martin laid a hand on her arm.

"Lissa, it is you who are being outrageous," he told her, and there was a sting in his voice that made her look at him uncertainly, almost fearfully. "You've behaved ridiculously. You owe these people a profound apology. You must go back to the hotel and get some rest."

"Rest? When my poor baby may be in some awful trouble?" wailed Lissa, stricken anew.

"Your solicitude is a bit tardy, my dear," Martin's tone was dry, cold. "Come along, we'll let Paul drop us off at the hotel."

"I refuse to budge one inch from this place until I have Gail—"

Kate said quietly, "We have plenty of room, Mr. Kincaid. Charles and I would be very happy to have you stay, if you feel you can put up with our barbaric living conditions."

Martin smiled warmly at her. "You are more than generous, Mrs. Prentice. Perhaps it would be best for us all to wait this out together, if you're sure we're not putting you out too much," he said pleasantly.

"Not at all," said Kate politely. A moment later Greg and Norah were coming down the stairs, dressed for the drive to Atlanta.

Dawn was breaking when the big limousine purred softly into the outskirts of Atlanta. Greg and Norah had taken Paul, the chauffeur, into their confidence during the drive, and he had expressed a warm and friendly interest.

While Norah dozed in the back seat, Greg, up front with the chauffeur, had discovered that they were fellow veterans of the war, Paul of the E. T. O., Greg of the Pacific theater. As they traded experiences, and in their own phrase, "sweated out" the war in retrospect, Greg almost forgot the errand on which they were traveling. But once they reached the outskirts of the city, the three of them forgot everything else.

The lights of an all-night restaurant caught their attention, and over scrambled eggs and coffee, they made their plans.

"I think," suggested Paul, "that since Miss Wayne—"

"Norah," she corrected briefly, and he grinned at her.

"Thanks. Norah, then," said Paul, and went on, "since Norah and I, and Miss Prentice were close friends, about the same age and all that, it would be helpful if Norah would sort of put herself in Miss Prentice's position—try to figure out, from her own reactions, what she would do if she had been Miss Prentice. Like the man who found the lost animal by saying, 'I just figured where I'd go if I was in his place and lost and I went and there he was!'"

Norah nodded thoughtfully, and was still for a moment, in thought.

"Well, if I hadn't more money," she said slowly, "and wanted to find work, and didn't know Atlanta very well—"

"Gail knows Atlanta," Greg interrupted.

"The dollar side," Norah pointed out. "The rich, lush hotels, the swanky part. But if she came to Atlanta with just a little money and wanted a job, she'd have to find out about the nickel side."

The two men watched her, waiting, and after a moment Norah said, "She had a lot of baggage. She wouldn't be able to handle that without taxiing—and taxis are expensive. She'd probably check some of her baggage. She'd have to find out about a cheap hotel—she'd ask somebody."

Greg and Paul exchanged a swift glance.

"The Travelers' Aid," they said almost at the same moment, and nodded.

Outside the restaurant, Paul said, "Railroad station first. Which one?"

"Her train would have come in at the Union Station," Greg supplied. Paul nodded and shifted gears, and the big car purred into motion.

The woman at the Travelers' Aid office was helpful and interested. Eventually they discovered the hotel to which Gail had gone; from then on, Gail, with no idea of concealment, had left a wide-open trail. By late evening they found the rooming house, and while the two men waited in the car, Norah, her heart hammering, went up the steps and rang the bell. Paul and Greg saw her admitted, saw the door close behind her. And solemnly, they shook hands.

STARSSAY—

For Wednesday, October 1

THERE are combinations of an adverse nature to hold up or complicate some very promising groundwork for constructive effort. A false idea, confused plan or heated argument might be able to upset all objectives of long-term significance. A confused slant, over-aggressive attack, if based on impulsive ill will or bad temper, may wreck a clever and well-started project.

A firm curb on tongue and temper may assist in rectifying wrong moves, based on exaggerated ideas of self importance. Hasty conclusions may be able to confuse issues and undermine good work.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find their mental outlook in a state of confusion, with lack of sound judgement as to details of well-established endeavors, particularly rash and excitable should the emotions and impulses instead of clear logic take hold. Angry, acrimonious or turbulent moods may have power to wreck cherished plans and well-laid-out designs and purpose. Go slow, suppress over-zealous acts and "fighting words" for any sort of pleasant relations and accomplishment.

A child born on this day should be trained to act on reason and logic and not swayed in its decisions by impulse and emotions.

DEFENSE DROPS MOST

Contracts made because of mistakes by the defense far outnumber those which fail because of the declarer's errors. This is no more than natural, since the defenders are in the dark as to the total strength of their own assets and the location of them in particular suits, whereas the declarer knows exactly what he has to work with and also just what strength the opponents have. The only fact he doesn't know is how much is to his right and how much at his left.

It required a good deal of courage for South to bid 3-No Trumps after North had made that weak bid of 3-Hearts when he should have bid 3-Diamonds. But his doing so was typical of the daring rubber bridge played by some of the best bridge players in Pittsburgh, where this deal has been remembered by participants and kibitzers for a half a dozen years as an example of a declarer getting away with murder.

West's right lead was the club 7, but instead he opened the heart 4. The Q won that and with a damaging spade shift available East shifted instead to the club J. South won with the A and led the heart 10, which he sent through. Now, to cash that suit, South needed two entries to the dummy. One he got by finessing the diamond J, a play West could have ruined by playing the Q. The heart K went to the A. East discarding his diamond 3. West returned the club 7 to the 9 and K.

Now the diamond K was overtaken by the A to score the heart J and 6. East tossing first the diamond 8 and next the spade 10, whereas the Q discard would have caused trouble, as you can see on the next play. The spade 8 was led; if East had kept the 10, West could now have taken two spades. But East won with the Q. Unable to repeat the suit, he cashed his diamond 10 and then had to lead a club from the 1 ♠ into the Q-8 to give South two tricks and a trump. The spade made four in hearts, with none in spades, his original suit bid.

Reception Held In
EUB Community House

Rev. C. L. Wilson,
Mrs. Wilson
Honored

Seventy-five members and friends of the First Evangelical United Brethren church gathered Tuesday evening in the Community house, East Main street, for a reception arranged in honor of the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor, and Mrs. Wilson. The Rev. Mr. Wilson was reassigned to the church for the third year at the recent annual conference session held in Circleville.

The social evening was under the auspices of the general aid society of the church. Mrs. Ronald Nau and Mrs. Russel Jones were co-chairmen of the program committee. They were assisted by Mrs. Clarence Radcliff and Mrs. Hillis Hall. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Ezra Pritchard, Miss Clara Lathouse and Mrs. Roy Groce.

Group joined to sing "He Lifted Me" and "It Is Glory Just To Walk With Him", at the opening of the splendid program. On behalf of the First E.U.B. Sunday school, Clarence Radcliff extended greetings from its members. Miss Gladys Noggle voiced the message from the members of the church in welcoming their pastor.

Mrs. William Goeller selected the hymn "Because I Did Not Walk Alone" for her vocal solo. She was accompanied by Mrs. James A. Herbst, wife of the Rev. Mr. Herbst, pastor of Calvary E.U.B. church.

The Rev. L. C. Sherburne, pastor of St. Philips church extended greetings from the Ministerial Association of Pickaway County.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson responded by requesting all 483 members of the congregation to co-operate with him in future activities, general worship periods and functions of the church.

He emphasized consistency, co-operation and co-ordination in his address of acceptance. Rev. Mr. Wilson expressed his deep appreciation for the outstanding coordination of the church members for the previous three years he has been their pastor.

Mrs. Wilson expressed her appreciation for the excellent co-operation in the past and asked that it be continued in the future.

Carl Anderson, William Strehl and the Rev. Carl R. Butterbaugh, members of the men's trio of the Morris Evangelical United Brethren church, sang "There Is A Deep Settled Peace In My Soul". They were accompanied at the piano by Miss Maxine Poling. Mrs. Ralph Long brought the devotional period to a close by pronouncing the benediction.

Refreshments were served later in the evening as the guests enjoyed an informal social hour. Mrs. Groce was general chairman of the hostess committee, with Miss Lathouse and Mrs. Pritchard assisting.

THRIFTY COOKS
USE ALL BONES,
WASTE NOTHING

Thrifty homemakers are careful to make full use of all bones and trimmings in providing appetizing and healthful meals for their families in these days of higher food prices.

Alma Garvin, extension nutritionist, Ohio State University, reminds women that bone in a cut of meat is paid for at the same rate as lean meat and fat, so a wise housewife tries to get her money's worth. In recent years, every bit of fat from meat has been saved but little use has been made of bone.

Bones left from roasts, steaks, chops, ham, or any other cut can be used to good advantage for making soup stock. Necks, wings, and other bony pieces of fowl are especially good for soup.

Bones give soup a fine flavor as well as adding some calcium and protein, especially gelatin. Markets often sell knuckle-bones, the traditional soup bones, at low cost. An additional economy suggested by Miss Garvin is the use of liquid left from cooking fresh vegetables or from canned vegetables in making soup stock mixture.

The nutritionist recommends that large bones be cracked before going into a soup pot so liquid may reach all parts more easily. Soup bones should be covered with water and simmered gently a couple of hours. If some tomato is added, its acid will help dissolve calcium from the bones.

Vegetable trimmings, such as celery leaves and outer stalks and onion trimmings, contribute flavor and some minerals and vitamins. These do not require long cooking as bones do. In fact, the nutritionist points out that the vegetables give the best flavor and more nutritive value if they are not added to the pot until about the last half hour of cooking.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Congrove, route 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stockman, East Franklin street, have returned to their homes after a motor trip through the South. Information has been obtained that there will be plenty of "heat" in the Old Barn at the Pickaway Country Club for the annual Fall Carnival Wednesday evening.

Members of the entertainment committee said, "they had secured a stove that would provide warmth to counteract the cool breezes."

Festive spirit will predominate in the Old Barn which has been decorated in true carnival spirit for the occasion.

Make This Home Recipe
To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugist and ask for four ounces of Liquid Rennet Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds one may lose disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and fat and help regain slender, more active.

Lombardi and Reynolds To Pitch Second Game Of Series At New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Windy old Yanks, caustic as always, is putting on an appropriate, 40-degree chill today for the sedately pensive Yanks and Brooklyn as the 1947 World Series gets ready for its second or more perfunctory stage.

This mild intra-tribal function, erroneously alluded to in advance as extreme internecine warfare, was to be resumed at the appointed hour of 1:30 p. m. with much of the original shooting-script intact. Same teams, same starting time, same place—the Yankee Stadium, ganged to the runways with the same record 73,365 crowd.

The only worthwhile differences will be three in number, including the pitchers, namely, Allie Reynolds, for the Yankees, and Vic Lombardi, for the Dodgers. The other pair of over-night alterations, readily discernible, affected the odds and the weather.

The latter was running a low temperature, down around a sub-freezing 31 in some of the outlying districts during the early morning hours. But it had nothing on yesterday's pastime, which was surpassing low in everything save receipts.

These, in fact, hit a new single game record of $325,828.70, for World Series play, while the Yanks were dawdling along to a 5-3 opening day decision.

As a result, the Yanks went all the way to 3-1 in the betting on a four-out-of-seven game basis and even rated an 8-5 price for today's second game. However, the first-game behavior of neither principal was anything that might seem likely to restore international confidence on a sound footing.

They were strangely calm throughout. They seemed to be playing it in straight-ahead pantomime. They were to the end placid, flaccid and strictly from malnutrition.

Even the defeated Dodgers suffered no outward pangs or excess of zeal after seeing Ralph Branca run deftly through his man-overboard routine in a calamitous fifth inning. Briefly, he retired the first 12 men in order and held a 1-to-0 lead.

Then he "washed out" with the 13th—and, from that point, went all the way down the drain in a five-run deluge during which the Yanks did everything but hit. It probably meant the end of 21-game Branca as a starting pitcher for the rest of the event.

But today was at least the beginning for southpaw Lombardi, a robust soul though limited in natural talent. The young man, however, was merely presumed to be manager Burt Shotton's choice, since for the second time Burt just "ain't a-saying."

He "want," for instance, in the Branca first-game selection; nor would he later confide his intentions toward Lombardi today. But that won't help Burt or the Brooklyn any when they try to turn the pendulum back from yesterday's outcome—and that of the 1941 series, as well—with a fair sort of bus-stop lefthander against the 19-game Reynolds. The latter, for one thing, has been well night unbeatable at the stadium this year.

For another, Reynolds has been well night unbeatable everywhere through the last three weeks of the season.

However, of his 19 victories, 12 were won at the stadium. The record, to be exact, is 12 out of 14 there, which isn't quite the sort of thing to make the Dodgers go into a hearty ovation over their immediate prospects in the series.

Circleville high school reserves play out-of-town this week, going to Logan Thursday night.

Coach Tommy Bennett is expected to start about the same lineup as defeated Greenfield last Thursday here.

Several important dates are on the immediate calendar of the CHS gridlers.

FRIDAY NIGHT The Tiger varsity will be host to Washington township of Scioto county at CHS field and Coach Steve Brudzinski's charges will be trying hard for victory No. 4 in a "Mothers' Day" game.

Tuesday night Washington C. H. junior high team will come here to play the CHS eighth and ninth graders. Next Thursday, October 9, Chilli-cothe high school reserves will visit the Little Tigers. On Friday, October 10, the Tiger varsity will get what is expected to be the sternest test so far when Newcomerstown comes here. This game will be known as "Fathers' Day."

Coach Steve said Wednesday the varsity seemed to be in good shape. No serious injuries cropped up at Westerville and the Tigers are expected to be at full strength when the starting whistle blows Friday at 8 p. m.

PICKS DODGERS TO WIN SERIES

Pirate Slugger Says Bums Still Have Good Chance To Take Classic

By RALPH KINER
NEW YORK, Oct. 1—I think the Brooklyn Dodgers still have a great chance to win the World Series.

I have a lot of respect for Joe DiMaggio, a great slugger, and for Tommy Henrich—both as long-ball hitters and as great outfielders.

But those two Yankees, and my old opponent of high school days in California, Johnny Lindell, can't carry all the load.

The Yankees won the first game of the series yesterday, not on hitting, but on the wildness of one of the National League's best pitchers, Ralph Branca, who suddenly collapsed after a great four-inning job.

Yesterday the Yankees couldn't hit. Of their four blows, two were timely — Lindell's

BETTING ODDS ON YANKS JUMP FOR GAME TODAY

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1—World Series odds on the New York Yankees were a prohibitive 2 to 9 today at the headquarters of St. Louis betting commissioner James Carroll.

The odds reflected the Yanks' triumph yesterday over the Brooklyn dodgers in the first game of the series.

Carroll's revised quotations set the dodgers at 3½ to 1.

In today's game, Carroll likes the Yankees, with Reynolds pitching, at 11 to 20. He calls Brooklyn, with Lombardi on the hill, 3-to-2 underdog.

double and Henrich's single. They came after walks and a hit batsman, and they provided the difference.

I was impressed most by DiMaggio, especially when I saw that wide expanse of left field he has had to clear to hit all the home runs he has hit in Yankee Stadium.

There is only one little plot where he can get a homer. Many of his drives have to carry 450 feet to get into the seats.

And he showed me something in outfield play. He and Tommy Henrich are the last word in finesse, ability and smartness.

DO NOT STORE APPLES SHOWING DISEASED OR BRUISED SPOTS

WRAP APPLES IN SQUARES OF NEWSPAPER

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

HAS YOUR favorite apple tree produced well this year? Are you planning to pack and store late apples, your own harvest for your own winter use? Here then are a few pointers:

Home storage is usually done in the cellar, and if it is not as cold as it should be, the apple should be wrapped in paper, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

In general, apples are best stored in a cool, frost-proof place where the temperature is between 34 to 40 degrees. There should be some moisture in the air so the fruits will not shrivel.

Fruits such as apples and pears (the latter don't often store well under home conditions) will last longer in better condition and absorb less vegetable odor when individually wrapped in newspaper, and then boxed. Boxing helps to keep the fruits from bruising, but don't pack them in too tightly.

For large fruits the pieces of newspaper should be about a foot square. Place an apple in the center of the wrapper, as illustrated, then bring the paper around it with a twisting motion. The wrapped apples should then be placed in a box.

Wrapping prevents wilting, reduces changes of temperature, retards ripening, checks the spread of decay and disease, and helps to prevent bruising.

Take special care in the selection of fruit for storage. Do not include apples which are bruised, as illustrated, wormy or spotted with disease.

The Wesleyan Female college at Macon, Ga., was founded in 1836. The first degrees were conferred in 1840.

Hints on Etiquette

A man usually asks his best friend to be best man at his wedding, even if he is married. If entertaining is done for the bride party, however, the man's wife should be included.

Today's Horoscope

The opal is the birthstone of October, the flower the calendula, and the colors white and yellow. The man or woman who celebrated a birthday anniversary on Oct. 1 can adapt to circumstances and environment, but enjoys luxury and ease. You are sociable, magnetic, a loyal friend, and possess a happy disposition. You are idealistic, sensitive, like music and art, and derive much pleasure from both. Do not marry in haste. Your birthday shows adverse influences where business, news, talk, commitments, relatives, publicity and neighbors are concerned. Demands may be unreasonable. Elderly relatives and females generally will render valuable aid to you in your next year, but children and young associates betoken quarrels and loss. Exercise the utmost caution in business, correspondence and travel during this period. The child who is born on this date will be subject to sudden reversals and adverse changes and journeys. Documents misplaced or stolen may also cause anxiety and loss. Elders, however, will prove most helpful.

Touring around the country like Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, is Jack Benny's idea of a perfect vacation.

But while Mr. and Mrs. Smith are having fun—Jack Benny is working.

This past summer, Jack Benny hopped in his car and toured the west, first driving to Banff, Lake Louise, down to Sun Valley and then home to Beverly Hills. After a few weeks rest, he drove to Chicago and then took the train to New York.

And while seeing the country and playing golf, Jack talked to everyone he met—porters, waitresses, caddies, gas station attendants—and this winter when you listen to the Jack Benny program, which has its premiere on NBC Oct. 5, you'll hear many of the expressions Jack Benny heard on his trip, and meet many of the characters he met.

Jack Benny believes that you can't picture Mr. and Mrs. America while sitting at home in an easy chair. You've got to go out and meet them, learn what they laugh at and portray them as they are.

And that's why Jack Benny has the all-time audience rating for the past fifteen years. Mr. and Mrs. America hear themselves and their friends because the characters aren't figments of Benny's imagination. He's met every one of them.

So far, the fall-winter radio scene shows one new trend; closer wedding of comedy and music, with big names in both categories sharing the spotlight, where heretofore each has headlined his own show.

Symptomatic of this new vogue are two popular week-end programs, the Vaughn Monroe Show and the Tony Martin

Show, heard on CBS Saturday and Sunday, respectively.

The Monroe program, which has been starring the singing maestro and his orchestra with the Moon Maids vocal group and a weekly guest—sometimes musical, sometimes comic—has just acquired Colonel Stoopnagle as its regular featured comedian. In the past Stoopnagle has customarily headlined his own primarily-comedy program; now he's joining forces with the bandleader-baritone Monroe.

Similarly, Martin's show, starring the handsome baritone of movie fame, and with Soprano Evelyn Knight and Victor Young's orchestra, plus a comedy guest each Sunday, has just passed Alan Young, the hilarious funster from Canada, as its permanent comedy feature. Young previously had his own all-comedy show, too.

Actually, this may be just a new manifestation of a trend that has been growing for quite a while—i. e., to weld music and comedy ever more closely together. In one case at least, namely the Henry Morgan Show, they've even gone so far as to imbue the music with humor: on that comedy program, Bernie Green's orchestral selections are by no means serious "musical interludes" between skits and monologues. They are, rather, instrumental satires, themselves laughable as the sketches.

In on the ground floor, ironically enough, is radio's oldest network commercial program, the NBC "Grand Ole Opry," which since 1925 has consistently been a variety show combining mirth and mountain music. Evidently it's old enough to be a pace-setter for the new season!

Traveling plans are under way for the "Truth or Consequences" program. Early in October, Ralph Edwards will take his entire staff and production crew to Houston, Texas, for the three day state convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The program will be broadcast from Houston on Oct. 11.

Lassie, famous M-G-M dog star, who headlines her own ABC radio show Sundays, is expected to finish shooting location scenes for her latest M-G-M film, "Hills of Home," at Sonoma, Calif., by the second week in October.

Hal Borne, talented orchestra director of the Tuesday NBC "A Date With Judy" airshow, has just completed scoring the music for the Eagle-Lion film "Headin' for Heaven," starring Stuart Erwin and Glenda Farrell.

Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton, co-stars of the Sunday CBS "Blondie" shows, have just completed their 23rd "Blondie" screen comedy, "Blondie's Night Out." The film series began in 1938, one year before the story became an air-show.

Rudd and Frank Featherwax, brothers who own Lassie, the famed canine radio and movie star, maintain more than 50 other dogs in elaborate kennels

Band Festival To Be Feature of Pumpkin Show

MUSICAL GROUPS TO PLAY HERE ON WEDNESDAY

High School Musicians From Several Communities Enter Event

Huge free band festival with more than a dozen high school bands from central Ohio communities participating will be one of the major highlights of the 41st annual four-day Pumpkin Show which is scheduled to be held Oct. 22-25 in Circleville.

This was announced Wednesday by Ned Dresbach, secretary of the Pumpkin Show organization. He said Dan McClain will have charge of the band festival as well as all band appearances and all parades in connection with the Pumpkin Show.

McClain said the big band festival will be staged beginning at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, Oct. 22 at the Circleville high school athletic field and that admission will be free. The festival will not be a contest, he explained, and there will be no awarding of prizes.

THE BANDS will be divided into two classes, namely Class A and Class B. Five bands already have been entered in the Class A division. These are the Jackson high school band, Washington C. H. high school band, Wilmington high school band, the 100-piece Lancaster high school band, and the Circleville high school band. Several bands will be included in the Class B group.

At 6:30 p. m. Oct. 22—just one hour preceding the band festival—little Miss Junior Pumpkin Show will be selected by a board of judges. Those eligible for that title will be limited to girls enrolled in the first, second, or third grade in elementary schools in Circleville and Pickaway county and the adjacent trading area, it was explained by Dresbach. The judging will take place on a platform to be erected at Court and Main streets.

Miss Pumpkin Show of 1947 will be selected by a board of judges at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 23, on a platform to be erected in the courthouse yard.

MISS JUNIOR Pumpkin Show will be sponsored by the Youth Canteen. The prize awards will be $10 first, $5 second, and $2.50 third.

Miss Pumpkin Show of 1947 will be sponsored by the local chapter of the Sigma Phi Gamma sorority, and the prize awards will be $15 first, $10 second, and $5 third.

The orchid family numbers some 400 plants and species estimated to be between 5,000 to 15,000. There are flowers the size of pearls and as large as eight inches.

SPEED COUNTS AT Milking Time

Washing with hot water (130°F) not only promotes sanitation but stimulates the let-down action.

Foremilking reduces bacteria count and is a check on the health and condition of the udder. A uniform routine for time and order of milking is important.

Faster milking, according to dairy tests, helps increase milk production. The gentle, thorough action of McCormick-Deering Milkers helps your cows let down their milk faster—and give more milk. McCormick-Deering Milkers also decrease the amount of strappings and help maintain healthy udders. Take good care of your milker. Ask us for suggestions on keeping it operating efficiently.

Test cups on McCormick-Deering Milkers can be put in place quickly and the cow milked out quickly (3 or 4 minutes). Strip at once after removing the milker unit.
